Play alone:
Keep trading out cards — always having 10 — until you have 3 of each type. Record your 9 verbs and write the Yo Preterite form of each one beside its infinitive form.

Play in a group:
Trade out cards in turn, each member adding one card to the discard pile and then taking a new card from the draw pile on each turn. The winner is the first to have 3 of each type of card (3 -zar, 3 -gar, and 3 -car verbs) - plus one card left over.

Give each player a complete playing board page, or cut each playing board into 6 cards each. Discard Vosotros cards if desired.

Select some or all of the playing cards from pages 5 to 12 and cut apart. Sort into -ar, -er, and -ir groups or mix together for a greater challenge.

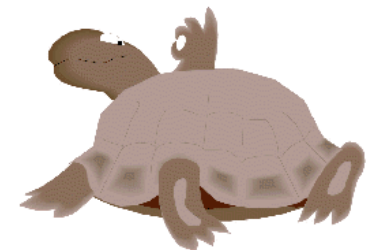

Either assemble groups for play or set the cards up as an independent practice activity.

If playing as a group, give each player one or more playing boards (or cards, if cut) with animals on them, according to how many you want covered for a win.

Set playing cards in a loose pile between players, face down.

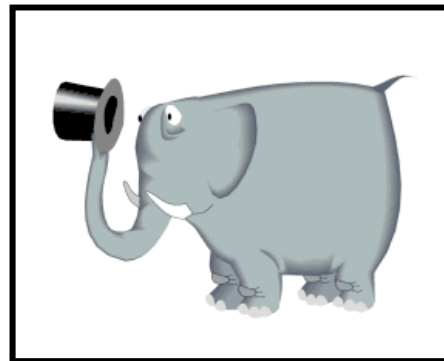

Have each player select a card at random on each turn and try to fit it to their board. If a card fits, they keep it as a covering on one space, and if it does not fit their board (s) they must return it to the pile, beneath other cards.

The winner is the first to cover all animal spaces on their playing boards/cards and to successfully read the sentences made. Leaders should check visually and orally for accuracy before declaring a win.
